Where will you make a difference? Deciding where to focus your giving is part of deciding which causes and charities to support. As you consider the causes you care about, ask yourself: Where do you want to see change happen?

Consider where you want to make a difference:

- Right at home: In your immediate neighborhood or city.
- Close by: Within your wider region or state.
- Nationally: Across the country.
- Globally: Addressing broad challenges around the world.
- Specifically: In a particular country or region abroad that holds special meaning for you.

You may find that your heart is in more than one place. That's perfectly fine. The goal is simply to find charities that are active in the places that matter most to you.

Rank your geographic priorities in this table (1 for your top priority, 2 for next, etc.):
